

Rural. But Not Isolated.

Working and living in SICHC's geographical service region offers the best of two worlds: rural and urban. Here's a taste:

Sports fan? Nationally ranked collegiate football and basketball action is within an hour's drive north or south. And the venerated Indianapolis Motor Speedway and its legendary 500 Mile Race and the NASCAR Brickyard 400 is a morning drive up Interstate 65.

Enjoy the outdoors? Great boating, skiing, swimming, canoeing, hunting, hiking and much more is all around you. Nearby Patoka Lake and Hoosier National Forest offers all kinds of family fun.

Shopping - Both the latest and the discounted. Plenty of major retail opportunities are within an hour's drive to either Louisville or Bloomington. And don't forget the major Factory Outlets just north of Columbus (which is a great retail center of its own).

Music and entertainment? From the concert series hosted by the nearby world-class French Lick Resort to major acts in Louisville and Bloomington (including symphonies, ensembles and more) to an entire spectrum ranging from country & western to the latest musical acts or Broadway plays - all are easily available.

Legendary burgers & fries, great Indian or Thai, or high-end Italian and more. From top-ranked steakhouses to memorable family-recipe fried chicken, an evening repast or getaway brunch is an easy drive or just around the corner.

Serving in the medical profession can be demanding - and southern Indiana offers great places to unwind and recharge.

Welcome to the Wonder of Southern Indiana

Indiana's southern region is full of surprises, and you'll discover them up and around every rolling hill with so many things to do and see. A great place to start would be the "Eighth Wonder of the World," a nickname bestowed upon the beautifully restored French Lick Resort (see the West Baden Hotel atrium on the cover). Up for some fun? Take an exhilarating ride on one of Holiday World's nationally ranked roller coasters. Or enjoy the outdoors with hiking, caving, horseback riding, canoeing, fishing, hunting, ziplining, houseboating, and more. Outdoors not your thing? Try treasure hunting through our many antique stores, or take in a winery or brewery tour. Whether beautiful drives, railroads, historic areas, sampling an architectural tour, or taking in a festival, there's much to do.

5 Great Reasons to Live in Southern Indiana

1) Low Cost of Living – Groceries, healthcare, utilities, taxes, and transportation often cost less than national averages. It also means home prices will typically be less than the national average.

2) Great Place to Raise a Family – Southern Indiana offers a good education system (both public and private) and lots of outdoor activities, friendly communities, and numerous religious options.

3) Excellent Higher Education – Indiana's in-state universities like nearby campuses of Indiana University, Purdue, Vincennes and others are great resources to extend your education, or to send your children.

4) It's Safe – While Indiana has a low crime rate, Southern Indiana boasts the lowest within its communities. A key advantage of living a rural life.

5) Nice 4-season Weather – Southern Indiana is not a one season experience. Perhaps some snow in the winter, likely a rainy spring, but definitely a beautiful green summer and a glorious colorful fall.
